New Investment Advisory - Asset Allocation Recommendation

Below is a link to the document outlining the recommended asset allocation for new money going back into the stock market, after the Investment Advisory dated October 6, 2010. There are two recommended allocation structures. The difference between the two is a function of the amount of money being invested. The recommended funds and fund managers reflect a diversified, balanced and correlated portfolio designed to optimize volatility to investment return. In addition, the chosen managers are some of the best performers available today.
